Mr. G. W. Fuller's Intentions.

Since the redistribution of the Federal electorate there has been a good deal of speculation as to whether Mr. Fuller would contest Illawarra or Werriwa, but the definite announcement has now been made that he will stick to Illawarra. A petition, to which over 700 names were subscribed in a few days, was forwarded to Mr. Fuller from Camden, asking him to submit his name for selection as the Liberal candidate for Werriwa, and he has replied through Mr. G. M. Onslow making it known that he cannot leave his old constituency, Illawarra, where he intends to remain in the interests of his party. He believes that he can keep the Liberal flag flying, as his supporters are as numerous as ever, and anxious for him to remain with them.

Dr. H. L. Jones has also received word to the following effect from Mr. Fuller:—"It is with great regret that I am writing you this note. I don't know how to express my thanks to you and others—particularly yourself, who have so kindly interested yourselves with a view of nominating me for Werriwa. It would have given me the greatest pleasure to have been able to fall in with your wishes. I regret exceedingly that the new distribution has for the present at any rate, separated me politically from a large number of electors who have supported me so strongly in the past, and the great majority of whom I had come to regard more in the light of personal friends than political supporters. However much I regret it, I felt I had not to consider my own political position but that in the interests of Liberalism it was my duty to fight the battle in that position where the fight will be most severe. Accordingly I am doing so. I may be jeopardising my political career in taking this course, but I know that whatever happens I will have the best wishes of yourself and the large proportion of the electors who reside in that portion of the old Illawarra electorate, which has been cut off and added to Werriwa. The changes of the future may bring us together again, when I feel sure the old relationship would be immediately established. Thanking you for your many kindnesses in the past, and hoping to have the pleasure of meeting you from time to time, I remain, faithfully yours, George W. Fuller. P.S.—Keep the flag flying—G.W.F."

Wedding.

The Bowral Methodist Church was crowded to the doors on Thursday evening last to witness the marriage ceremony of one of Bowral's popular young ladies, Miss Gladys, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Stokes, of Bowral, to Mr. Claude Newton Lee, of Mittagong. The Rev. J. Colwell performed the ceremony. The church had been artistically decorated for the occasion with fronds of ivy and greenery, white ribbon streamers and flowers, and pot plants, by the girl friends of the bride, and a very pretty effect was produced. Immediately over where the couple stood was a large marriage bell, which showed them with content just as the ceremony was concluded. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her away. She was handsomely attired in a dress of white silk, trimmed with silk gulleur insertion, with silk tulle and yoke studded with crystals; her long train was trimmed with hand-made silk flowers, while the same finished the corsage at the waist. She also wore the customary wreath of orange blossoms, and hand-made veil trimmed with point lace and true lovers' knots. She carried a handsome bouquet of white tuberose, lilies of the valley, and asparagus fern, veiled with white and white satin streamers, which with a beautiful gold Nellie Stewart bangle, were the gifts of the bridegroom. She was attended by two bridesmaids—Misses Grace and Eileen Stokes (the bride's sisters), who were prettily attired in white shower of hall, daintily trimmed with malines and valenciennes insertion and lace, finished with white satin streamers; they also wore white mob caps trimmed with white satin ribbon. The handsome bouquets they carried were of pink carnations and asparagus fern, with pink tulle and pink ribbon streamers which, together with gold Nellie Stewart bangles, were the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Lee, who acted as best man, and the groomsmen were Messrs. Walter and Bert Stokes. During the ceremony the hymns, "The voice that breathed o'er Eden" and "Perfect Love" were nicely rendered by the choir; and during the signing of the register Miss Furze sweetly sang "Because." The bride's mother was dressed in pale blue voile, silk allover, with lace and applique trimmings, and brown silk crinoline hat with floral trimmings; and the bridegroom's mother wore black silk with lace trimmings. As the bridal party left the church, Miss Stephens, who presided at the organ, played the Wedding March.

A reception was afterwards held in the large school hall, where the bride and bridegroom received the hearty congratulations of their friends and relatives. About 130 guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding breakfast, and after ample justice had been done to the good things, Mr. A. Stephens, son of the bride, proposed "The bride and bridegroom."

He said he had watched the bride grow up from childhood, and he could not say anything but good of her. He did not know a great deal of Mr. Lee, but what he did know was in his favor. The toast was supported by Messrs. A. Knox (president of the Natal shire council, who spoke in highly complimentary terms of both Mr. and Mrs. Lee, Ebb Davis, E. Boardman and P. Webb, and Rev. T. H. Dista Morgan.

The toast, having been heartily received, Mr. Lee feelingly responded, thanking all for their kind expressions and good wishes.

Other toasts were also proposed and responded to.

The happy couple left by the early train on Friday morning, the bride travelling in a dress of mole chambray, trimmed with ruchings of same, tulle bow at neck, while the same finished the sleeves. Mr. and Mrs. Lee sailed on Saturday for the Malaita for Norfolk Island, where the honeymoon will be spent.

An exceedingly fine collection of presents was received, which were handsome and costly.

Fatality at Marulan.

About 10 p.m. on Saturday a wire was received at Marulan that a man had been shot at McClelland's camp at the duplication works, Lockyerleigh, four miles from Marulan. The police at once left for the camp, and found the report only too true.

From what has already been ascertained it appears that a quarrel had taken place amongst some of the men. A pea rifle in the possession of a laborer named William James, 33, was discharged. The bullet entered the neck of a youth named Ralph Albert Chambers, 17, horse driver, also employed on the duplication works, killing him almost instantly.

The body was taken to Marulan on Sunday morning.

James has been charged with the offence, and lodged in the lockup. He states that the weapon went off accidentally—that he was taking out a cartridge.

A preliminary inquiry was held on Sunday morning by the coroner, and adjourned until Wednesday, when it will be resumed at the coroner's court, Goulburn.

The victim of the tragedy was buried at Marulan on Monday.

The deceased's parents are said to live in Wardell-st., Marrickville. The accused is a native of Maitland, and has been employed on the duplication works for some months.

Dairy Farmers' Association.

A meeting of the above branch was held at the Criterion Hotel, Robertson, on Tuesday last. The president (Mr. W. R. Hindmarsh) occupied the chair, and there was a fair attendance.

A letter was received from the general secretary (Mr. G. R. C. Davis) drawing attention to the intended claims of the Rural Workers' Union, and urging upon the members to take an active interest in the affairs of the association, and to every opportunity to induce drymen who have not joined the association to do so and thus strengthen their case. The greater number of dairymen represented by the association the stronger would be their case, and the court would naturally assume that those who were not fighting the demands would be agreeable to them.

After the correspondence and other details had been dealt with, the secretary (Mr. P. A. Quirk) delivered an interesting lecture on "Colic, its causes and remedies," which caused a very instructive discussion among the members.

On the motion of Mr. Missingham and the president, the lecturer was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his instructive address.
